*Profit before tax (excluding unrealized FX differences) increased by 75% to ₦18.98 billion in Q4 2025. The decline in total PBT (including unrealized FX differences) was due to appreciation of the Naira. The reporting period recorded unrealized exchange losses of ₦9.02 billion due to a modest appreciation of the Naira relative to the 2024 financial year-end rate of ₦1,549.00/USD, strengthening to ₦1,439.93USD as of 31 December 2025. The unrealized exchange loss of ₦9.02 billion will not impact the year-end 2025 dividend payout, as it is largely offset by cumulative unrealized exchange gains of ₦92.56 billion recognized in 2024, which were included in retained earnings of ₦100.9 billion.

Key Financial Highlights

Total net revenue increased by 54% to ₦28.89 billion compared to Q4 2024, driven primarily by additional guarantee issuances totaling ₦96.34 billion in direct guarantees and ₦170 billion in Contingent Refinancing Guarantees (CRG) as at 31 December 2025. As of the end of Q4 2025, profit before tax (excluding unrealized foreign exchange gains) grew by 75% to N18.98 billion, compared to ₦10.83 billion in Q4 2024. This growth was supported by a 52% increase in net guarantee fee income and a 40% rise in total net investment income year-on-year. Overall, we achieved a pre-tax return on average equity (excluding unrealized exchange gains) of 21% for the year.

However, profit before tax (inclusive of unrealized exchange differences) declined sharply by 84%, falling from ₦61.56 billion in the prior year to ₦9.97 billion in Q4 2025. This decline in profitability was largely driven by the Naira appreciation during the year, which resulted in unrealized foreign exchange losses of ₦9.02 billion, compared to exchange gains of ₦50.73 billion in the comparative year ended 31 December 2024. In the comparative year (January to December 2024), the exchange rate surged from ₦951.79/USD to ₦1,549.00/USD, leading to substantial unrealized FX gains. In contrast, the current year (January to December 2025) experienced a modest appreciation of the Naira, with the rate improving from ₦1,549/USD to ₦1,439.93/USD. Consequently, the reporting period recorded unrealized exchange losses relative to the 2024 financial year-end rate of ₦1,549.00/USD, as the Naira strengthened slightly to ₦1,439.93/USD as of 31 December 2025.

InfraCredit's cost to income ratio (excluding unrealized exchange differences) stood at 31% in Q4 2025, which is lower than the Q4 2024 ratio of 37%. Notwithstanding the rising inflationary pressures that continue to impact our cost profile, the decline in cost to income ratio was due to increased revenue generated from guarantee portfolio and investment securities. In addition, InfraCredit's cost optimization strategy of leveraging technology and channeling spending towards achieving maximum value from our business operations was also key to the decline in the cost of income ratio.

As at the end of Q4 2025, total capitalization amounted to ₦229.61 billion, representing a 22% decline over the ₦292.62 billion position as at the end of Q4 2024 on the back of AFC and InfraCo's preferences shares redemption. We expect the total capital base to witness further decline in 2026/2027 on account of all preferences shares redemption.

Operating expenses as at 31st December 2025 increased by 33% compared to Q4 2024, primarily driven by rising prices of goods and services.

Performance Outlook

In line with our investment strategy, we have remained focused on holding our investments to maturity to minimize the impact of interest rate volatilities.

The USD denominated investment portfolio continues to record strong single-digit growth on the back of attractive yields on FCY securities, which will support InfraCredit's revenue drive in addition to the expected increase in guarantee fee income as we originate and expand deal flow opportunities.

FGN Eurobonds accounted for not less than 61% of total investment portfolio. In line with the diversification strategy, the objective is to achieve at least 40% DFIs' Eurobonds in total Eurobond portfolio.

- The decline in total PBT(including unrealized FX differences) was due to appreciation of the Naira. The reporting period recorded unrealized exchange losses of ₦9.02 billion due to a modest appreciation of the Naira relative to the 2024 financial year-end rate of ₦1,549.00/USD, strengthening slightly to ₦1,439.93.44/USD as of 31 December 2025. The unrealized exchange loss of ₦9.02 billion will not impact the year-end 2025 dividend payout, as it is largely offset by cumulative unrealized exchange gains of ₦92.56 billion recognized in 2024, which were included in retained earnings of ₦100.9 billion.
- However, PBT growth (excluding unrealized FX differences) during the period was supported by higher net guarantee fee income (52% YoY) and investment income (40% YoY), reflecting underlying operational strength.

Net guarantee fee income still do not fully cover operating expenses. When will net guarantee fee income cover total operating expenses?

- Cost-to-income ratio (excluding exchange differences) improved to 31% in Q4 2025 (from 37% in Q4 2024).
- Operating expenses grew due to inflation, but revenue growth outpaced cost increases.
- Guarantee fee income is growing in line with portfolio expansion.
- Based on ₦484.99 billion credit approved pipeline and leverage headroom, we expect net guarantee fee income to cover total operating expenses by 2026 financial year.

How resilient is the pipeline to macroeconomic instability?

- We have visibility on multiple near-term closings and risk-sharing arrangements with our development partners that support the execution of larger ticket transactions – e.g., NGN100 billion transactions and above.
- In addition, with interest rate declining in the market following the recent reduction in MPR by the Central bank, activity levels within our mandated deal pipeline has increased as sponsors are more willing to capitalize on the opportunities within their respective sectors .
